

SITUATIONS IN THE WORLD.

THE WORLD PRINTED 18,061 "HELP WANTED" ADVERTISEMENTS IN APRIL, AGAINST 18,565 IN THE 15 OTHER NEW YORK PAPERS COMBINED.

COHN'S BRUISED EYE.

Mr. Palmer, of Fifth Avenue, Says He Was Brutally Assaulted.

He Charges Artist Johnson and One Gage with Persecuting Him.

They Make Counter Charges, and the Case is Postponed.

Noah Palmer, who says he is a manufacturer, and lives at 751 Fifth avenue, was the complainant in the Yorkville Court today against John H. Johnson, an artist, and William S. Gage, of 145 West Forty-third street, who is connected with the Cripple Creek Mining Company.

Palmer has a black eye, which he claims was caused by a blow from Gage's fist last night on the Fifty-eighth street station of the Sixth avenue "L." Policeman Emil Johnson, of the East Fifty-first street station, was attracted by cries for help, and arrested Gage and Johnson. They say that a stranger blocked their way as they were going from the station to dinner at the Plaza Hotel. They remonstrated, the stranger called them a vile name and struck at Gage. Gage knocked the stranger down. The stranger yelled for help and the wrong man were arrested.

Later, in the police station, Gage saw that his rubber coat was cut and his arm scratched, evidently with a knife, and one finger was cut.

Before Police Justice Deuel, in Yorkville Court, today, Johnson and Gage, who had been arrested at the station, and that four or five weeks ago, while in "Cafe May," a French restaurant, in West Twenty-eighth street, the men at an adjoining table used such vile language that he asked to have his dinner served at another table.

He says he recognizes Artist Johnson as one of the three that, coming to the restaurant, threatened him as the three left the restaurant.

Mr. Palmer related that last evening while he was dining at a table in the bay window at Cafe May, Johnson and Gage passed on the other side of the restaurant, and although there were forty or fifty occupied tables, seated themselves at the table next to Palmer's.

Johnson began to tell Gage the story of the former's persecution, and Palmer in uncomplimentary terms.

Palmer complained against Johnson and Gage, and after a short hearing, Johnson and Gage were ordered to leave the court.

An hour later, when Palmer left, he saw Gage and Johnson sitting at a table for him. He took an up-town Sixth avenue "L" train to avoid them. They took the same train and sat next to Palmer. They got off at Fifty-eighth street, at the same time with Palmer.

He applied to the ticket checker to send for a policeman. Gage came up to Johnson and said:

"This is the way." A stranger interfered in Palmer's behalf and a general struggle followed.

Palmer denies having used a knife. Justice Deuel held that Johnson's testimony was not sufficient to warrant further examination until tomorrow, when it is expected other witnesses will be present.

Johnson and Gage were represented by J. Edgar Thompson, who brought in several friends, who had secured bail for them when they were prisoners in the Yorkville Court last night. They all left the Fifty-seventh street station at about midnight.

Palmer is forty-five years old. Gage and Johnson are thirty and twenty-eight respectively. Johnson is a cartoonist and has achieved some fame as the maker of smart pictures of fashionable New York society.

Palmer is a weekly periodical. He has his residence at the St. James Hotel.

HOTEL MEN DRIVE OUT.

They Take to the Parks and Numerous Refreshments.

Over three hundred members of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benevolent Association, now holding its annual convention in this city, took a drive this morning with their wives and daughters. The start was from the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

In the van were twelve coaches, each drawn by four horses, and followed a string of carriages and cabs that extended for blocks. The route laid out was through the city, and east side of the Park, through the Park to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, where a short halt was made.

Through the Park to One Hundred and Tenth street, and thence to the "Claremont Inn," Riverside Park, where another stop, with refreshments, was planned. There, also, the members and their wives and daughters were to be photographed.

After view of Grant's Tomb, the return was to be through Riverside Drive and the Park, with a stop at the Hotel Neherland, where luncheon was to be served.

To-night the Association will hold its annual banquet at Delmonico's.

HELEN GOULD SATISFIED.

The Tabernacle Vivants Will Be Given To-Morrow Afternoon.

Mrs. Helen M. Gould, Acting President of the Kindergarten and Potted Plant Association, which is to give a benefit entertainment at the New York Theatre to-morrow afternoon, and Francis Hegeman-Brown, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, have reached an understanding, and harmony has been restored.

The tabernacle to be presented by society ladies was designated as "Living Pictures." To this Mrs. Gould objected, and she stated that the words "tabernacle vivants" be substituted in the advertisements, and that the "vaudeville" number be eliminated. The latter objection was heeded, but no change has been made in the wording of the advertisement. Mrs. Gould has succeeded in placating Mrs. Gould and several other objecting patronesses.

Mrs. Gould, Miss Gould, and Mrs. Gould, will, according to Mr. Sutton, occupy a box. The entertainment promises to be a great success.

Another Woman Inspector.

Mrs. Marianna Van Rensselaer succeeds Wright Holcomb.

Marianna G. Van Rensselaer, wife of Schuyler Van Rensselaer, of 9 West Ninety street, was this morning appointed by Mayor Bird to succeed Wright Holcomb, who has been promoted to the position of school inspector.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer was assigned to the Fifth School District, and takes the place of Wright Holcomb, removed by Mayor Bird to the Second District.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer has been several days away from her appointment, and her visit to the Mayor's office this morning was to go through the formality of taking the oath of office.

Teasie Carmine Has Skipped.

Teasie Carmine, living with her parents at 322 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, was picked up by a patrol on Monday night and disappeared. The girl's mother keeps a theatrical boarding-house. One of the boarders was Melville Kirtley. It is thought the girl may have been met by Joseph Carmine, her brother, who was last seen at the Cripple Creek mine.

Mrs. Carmine will find Mrs. Winkler's advertisement in the paper for her children, 200, 210, 220, 230, 240, 250, 260, 270, 280, 290, 300, 310, 320, 330, 340, 350, 360, 370, 380, 390, 400, 410, 420, 430, 440, 450, 460, 470, 480, 490, 500, 510, 520, 530, 540, 550, 560, 570, 580, 590, 600, 610, 620, 630, 640, 650, 660, 670, 680, 690, 700, 710, 720, 730, 740, 750, 760, 770, 780, 790, 800, 810, 820, 830, 840, 850, 860, 870, 880, 890, 900, 910, 920, 930, 940, 950, 960, 970, 980, 990, 1000.

BABY LEFT IN A COURT-ROOM.

Two Women Leave the Child and Go to Home Without It.

Two women abandoned a child in the Tombs Police Court this morning, and they were successful in escaping detection.

Mrs. Sarah Murphy, of 10 Pell street, buried her five months' old baby in Calvary Cemetery yesterday and today called at the Tombs to hear her son testify in an assault case. Back of her were two women, one with snow-white hair. The younger one, who was dressed in black, was holding in her lap a five-months-old baby boy. The child has bright blue eyes, and red hair.

Mrs. Murphy played with the baby. Finally, the woman asked her kindly how the child was, and she said she was fine. Mrs. Murphy gladly did so. They expressed sympathy for her loss. One of them said as the women went out:

"If I lost my baby, I would go crazy."

After two hours had passed, Mrs. Murphy's anxiety attracted the attention of Justice Deuel, who asked what was the trouble. She told her story.

"Well, my good woman, what can I do for you?" he asked.

"You can do?" replied Mrs. Murphy. "You can't do anything."

Agent Hallock, of the Gerry Society, will investigate the case.

T'WAS A PITIFUL STORY.

How a Baby Became an Unknown Wife.

Mrs. Bridget Witlock, twenty-six years old, of 477 Hicks street, told a pitiful story to Justice Tighe, in the Butler Street Police Court, Brooklyn, today.

She was accused of abandoning a two-months-old baby in the hallway of 183 Sackett street.

Mrs. Witlock said it was not her baby, but was left with her several weeks ago by a woman named Kline, who said she was going to Jersey City. This woman promised to give her $2 a month, but she had not received a cent.

Mrs. Witlock said her husband had died, and she was left with a young child. She pawned everything in her home to keep Mrs. Kline's baby, and she was left with a young child.

At last came a question, she declared, and she started to cry. She said she could not do that, and so she wrapped it carefully in what clothes she could find, and left it in the hallway, in the hope that someone would care for it.

Mrs. Witlock said she had been to the Flatbush Hospital and the Kline baby to the city nurse.

SAYS HIS WIFE IS A BURGLAR.

Hollinger Married Her After She Had Robbed Him.

Patrolman Boyle, of the West Thirty-seventh street station, at 10 o'clock last night, arrested William Hollinger and his wife Catherine, of 406 West Thirty-eighth street and Charles Struck, of 342 West Thirty-ninth street, at the latter's place.

All three were engaged in the liveliest kind of a row. Hollinger had found his wife in Struck's house, had beaten the man and pulled the woman down four flights of stairs by her hair.

Justice Deuel held that Hollinger's testimony was not sufficient to warrant further examination until tomorrow, when it is expected other witnesses will be present.

Johnson and Gage were represented by J. Edgar Thompson, who brought in several friends, who had secured bail for them when they were prisoners in the Yorkville Court last night. They all left the Fifty-seventh street station at about midnight.

Palmer is forty-five years old. Gage and Johnson are thirty and twenty-eight respectively. Johnson is a cartoonist and has achieved some fame as the maker of smart pictures of fashionable New York society.

Palmer is a weekly periodical. He has his residence at the St. James Hotel.

WHITE CAPS IN HIBERNIA.

May Beat the Village Blacksmith or Being Too Loquacious.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., May 15.—Isaac Davis, the village blacksmith of Hibernia, was too loquacious to suit his neighbors and he received a note, marked with skull and cross-bones, and a warning to stop.

He continued to make obstinate remarks, and on Monday morning he was taken to his parlor with his wife, who was with him at the time.

Davis and his wife were locked every door and window, but the front door was left open. Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

Davis was then taken to the police station, where he was held for a few days.

ARRESTED FOR ABDUCTION.

Mrs. Trenholm Accused of Stealing Little Agnes Kearney.

Left the Child with a Friend After Cutting Her Hair.

Mrs. Edna Trenholm, supposed to be the abductor of little Agnes Kearney, who disappeared from in front of her home, 1154 Third avenue, last Friday, was arrested this morning.

Mrs. Trenholm was found at her home, 221 East Eighty-second street, by Special Patrolman Luke Gordon, of the East Sixty-seventh street station. She said she did not know where the child was.

She denied that she had kidnapped the child, saying that she had taken it out of charity. She had found the little child wandering through the street and taken it home. Finding then that she did not have proper accommodation for it there she placed it with a friend.

The police are quite positive that the woman's intentions were to kidnap the child.

Mrs. Trenholm is a large woman with chestnut hair. She says that she found the child in the street, and took it home. She said she had no money to give it, and she was afraid to take it to a police station for fear of being arrested.

Mrs. Trenholm, who is four years old, was found yesterday, Janitor of 24 East Seventy-seventh street, who said to Mrs. Kearney, who had neither eaten nor slept since the child was taken, that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

Mrs. Sundek said that after dusk last Friday, a stout Swedish woman, who she said was named "Mrs. Kearney," came to her flat, and called with the child. She said she had been told that the child was in all probability, in the flat at that number, occupied by Gustavus Sundek, his wife and growing daughter. Mrs. Kearney hurried to the Sundek flat to find that the child was really there.

WORLD-BEATERS ON 1 CENT.

Two Jersey Runaways Discovered After a Day's Absence.

Nimrod Mason, eleven years old, of Navesink, N.J., and Everett Ewing, twelve, of Atlantic Highlands, N.J., after planning two weeks, yesterday started out to conquer the world by coming to New York. As their combined capital was but one cent, which Ewing possessed, they came the day before yesterday on the steamboat St. Johns.

On their arrival here yesterday morning, Mason said he had heard that New York was a lucrative field of employment, but Ewing decided to remain downtown. Their companionship was broken, and they separated. They met in the evening in the Gerry Society Building, and it was a joyous reunion.

Mason asked George De Mena, of 921 Garden street, Hoboken, N.J., whom he had met in the morning, to take him to the city. He promptly took the boy to the city, and he was found in the morning.

Mason said